

What it is – and what it isn't!

This logo features on a number of CPI (and other) books. The logo was first devised for the book of the same name by UK writer, Steve Maltz. The logo raises the question, 'what does it mean'?

Hebraic Church – what its not

- its not a new denomination
- its not an organisation

Hebraic Church – what it is

It's a way of thinking about our relationship with God that takes two things seriously:

- the entire Bible as the revealed word of God
- the Hebraic root of the Christian faith (key verse, Romans 11:17-18; this is part of the discourse which some have called "the olive tree metaphor")

Hebraic Church is a "kite-mark" as to our publishing values and what we believe to be important in this second decade of the Twenty-First century. Hebraic Church is a trademark! (© Saltshakers, 2012).

Those churches that use the Hebraic Church kite-mark take these things seriously:

Hebraic Dynamic

To be aware of

To be 'switched on':

To be alert to:

- | | | |
|--|---|--|
| 1. Biblical / high view / evangelical | — | 1. Normative evangelical |
| 2. Recognise Yeshua | — | 2. How important is this? |
| 3. Prophets + Jesus all Jewish | — | 3. What does this mean? Is it important? |
| 4. Awareness of the [malign] influence of Greek philosophy on the development of the post-apostolic institutional Churches | — | 4. "Greek Thinking" |
| 5. Reject "replacement theology" | — | 5. Embrace "enlargement theology" |

One New Man

What Does It Mean?

The Hebraic dynamic of the Christian church is a key and central element of God's self-revelation to Mankind. "Hebraic Church" is a Twenty First century response of love, awe and wonder, to that self-revelation of God. In summary Hebraic church is both a response and a way of thinking about what is important from God's viewpoint (and we say that with due reverence). This is an individual response far more than it is a corporate response.
